² For details of how the period is calculated and whether it can be extended, please see the main body of this Yearbook or contact our local office for specific advice.

³ Only the basic or default principle is set out here. tribunals often have discretion to depart from the default position, or will defer to an express agreement by the parties to do so. For details of how the period is calculated and whether it can be extended, please see the main body of this Yearbook or contact our local office for specific advice.
